Course Description:

Weekly instructor-led seminar series where Neuroscience graduate students will showcase their neuroscience research. PhD candidates are required to present in both the Fall and Spring semesters throughout their PhD training. Each student will be required to complete weekly constructive evaluations of each presenter and will receive feedback on their presentations. Credit: 1 credit hour

Course Pre-Requisites:

Neuroscience PhD candidates (years 2 and above) who have formally joined the laboratory of an active faculty member in the Neuroscience program.

Students are excused from these requirements in the semester in which they will defend the PhD thesis, based on a formal request by their mentor to the Directors of the Neuroscience Program.

Course Objective:

Provide a venue for graduate students in the Neuroscience Program to present their research, as preparation for their presentations in their oral defense for entrance into candidacy. Students will gain exposure to a broad range of neuroscience research topics and also develop necessary skills to constructively critique scientific material.

Course Requirements:

- 1) Each student is required to give 1 stand-alone presentation each semester. The presentation will be 15-20-minutes in duration, followed by 5 minutes for questions. The presentation should include the following components:
 - a. An introduction to the topic, providing background on the state of the project. Published data from other laboratories should be appropriately referenced and the audience should be suitably prepared to understand the rationale and impact of the student's research.
 - b. An overall hypothesis and rationale for the proposed Aims should precede experimental data, as well as a slide that details the Specific Aims of their PhD proposal.
 - c. Appropriate description of proposed methodology should be adequately addressed with emphasis on methods that may be new to the course or program.

Note: In lieu of their own data, New Students can present a set of Specific Aims that address their proposed research and include data from the literature or their lab which justifies the logic for their proposed studies

Presentation titles are due by Friday 5pm on the week before your scheduled presentation

Students are strongly encouraged to meet with the course Directors prior to their presentation to review and solidify their slides and as a learning experience on the art of oral presentations.

- 2) Each student is required to complete an online evaluation for all presenters.

Weekly evaluations are due every Sunday by midnight.

Student evaluations will be anonymous. The evaluations include a series of questions and the opportunity to provide each presenter with a short overall assessment. Student evaluations will be made available online through the course page on Canvas.

Class Attendance Policy and Expectations:

As stated, each student will be required to present one 15-20-minute presentation per semester. Each student is also required to complete an online evaluation of each week's presenter. Attendance at each seminar is mandatory and will be recorded by the course directors.

The following exceptions to attendance are permitted:

- Each student will be allowed 1 absence per semester due to illness or personal reasons
- Each student will be allowed 1 absence for research purposes (e.g. meeting presentation, research travel)

All absences must be approved by the course directors. Excused absences must be consistent with university policies in the Graduate Catalog and require appropriate documentation. Additional information can be found in Attendance Policies.

Note: All presentations will be recorded through Zoom. Students with acceptable absences can review the presentations online and must still complete the evaluations.

Privacy-related issues regarding recorded course material:

Student presentations will be audio visually recorded for students in the class to refer back and for enrolled students with approved absences. Students who participate with their camera engaged or utilize a profile image are agreeing to have their video or image recorded.

If you are unwilling to consent to have your profile or video image recorded, be sure to keep your camera off and do not use a profile image. Likewise, students who un-mute during class and participate orally are agreeing to have their voices recorded. If you are not willing to consent to have your voice recorded during class, you will need to keep your mute button activated and communicate exclusively using the "chat" feature, which allows students to type questions and comments live. The chat will not be recorded or shared.

As in all courses, unauthorized recording and unauthorized sharing of recorded materials is prohibited.

Grading Policy:

Grade: Pass/Fail

Weekly attendance, successful completion of their presentation, and completion of all weekly evaluations for each speaker will constitute a passing grade.

A failing grade will result if any student does not meet the stated course requirements.

To reiterate, failure to complete ALL of the required evaluations will constitute a failing grade.

Students Requiring Accommodations:

Students with disabilities who experience learning barriers and would like to request academic accommodations should connect with the Disability Resource Center by visiting <https://disability.ufl.edu/students/get-started/>. It is important for students to share their accommodation letter with their instructor and discuss their access needs, as early as possible in the semester. The College of Medicine is committed to providing reasonable accommodations to assist students in their coursework.

Online Faculty Course Evaluation Process:

Students are expected to provide professional and respectful feedback on the quality of instruction in this course by completing course evaluations online via GatorEvals. Guidance on how to give feedback in a professional and respectful manner is available at <https://gatorevals.aa.ufl.edu/students/>.

Students will be notified when the evaluation period opens, and can complete evaluations through the email they receive from GatorEvals, in their Canvas course menu under GatorEvals, or via <https://ufl.bluera.com/ufl/>.
